instructions

1. To make tahini sauce, in a bowl, add the tahini and water and whisk until a smooth paste forms. Add the garlic, salt and lemon juice and whisk until silky smooth.
2. To make the cilantro paste, in a skillet over medium heat, heat the oil until it shimmers. Cook the onions until translucent and starting to turn golden, about 8 minutes. Add the cayenne and serrano, crushed garlic, salt, pepper, ground coriander and Aleppo peppers. Stir and cook for 4 minutes. Let cool slightly.
3. Add the mixture to a food processor, add the almonds and blitz until fine. Add fresh cilantro, lemon juice, salt, pepper, ground coriander and Aleppo peppers and pulse until well combined. With the motor running, gradually add olive oil and blitz until a paste forms. Place in a bowl and set aside.
4. To cook the bulgur, place the bulgur in a fine-mesh sieve and quickly rinse under cold running water. Drain.
5. In a pan over medium-high heat, heat the oil until it shimmers. Add the cinnamon, bay leaf, and dried limes, and cook for 2 to 3 minutes, until fragrant. Add the rinsed burghul and the salt, pepper and coriander. Cook, stirring frequently, until the burghul is coated with oil and sizzling, 4 to 5 minutes.
6. Pour in the boiling stock (or water) and increase the heat to high. Bring the mixture to a boil.
7. Reduce the heat to medium-low. Cover the pot with the lid, and cook the mixture for 18 minutes, until the burghul is tender, and the liquid has completely evaporated. Fluff the burghul with a spoon, and allow to rest, covered, for 10 minutes.
8. To cook the whole fish fillet, preheat the oven to 375 F. Rinse the fish, pat dry and place on a baking tray lined with parchment paper. Sprinkle with the salt, pepper, coriander, and Aleppo pepper on both sides. Cover the fish with a thick layer of the paste. Arrange some cherry tomatoes on the vine and some sliced zucchini in the baking tray, brush with olive oil and season with salt and pepper. Bake in the preheated oven until the fish is cooked through and flakes easily with a fork, 25 to 30 minutes.
9. To cook the fish in individual portions, slice the fish into 3-inch squares, pat dry and season with salt, pepper, ground coriander and Aleppo pepper. In a skillet on medium heat, pan fry the fish fillets in olive oil skin side down first, then flip and cook, a total of 6 minutes. Drizzle with lemon juice in the pan just before finishing the cooking. Slice a lemon in half, place face down on the skillet and let char, about 3 minutes.

10. To serve individual portions, add a dollop of tahini to the bottom of the dish, then a dollop of the cilantro paste. Arrange two fish fillets on top, a side of Bulgur and some vegetables on the side. Garnish with a charred lemon.
